

1. F. Know the Laws in Your State

There are many laws from the Federal, State and local levels that affect your school board, but do any of these laws actually help protect the students, the parents, and the tax payers?

This video will help you understand how the policy makers interpret the laws and write the policies for your school district. It is your job to understand these policies, and learn how you can change or contest these policies.

One thing that is important to know is that there is a federal law (PPRA), that protects the right of the parents to actually see the curriculum, and all materials for your child's classes before your child is exposed to them.

The more you know, the more you can help the families in your school district, so be sure to click on the link below to view this video and read, print and have on hand the Federal act linked below.

PPRA <https://studentprivacy.ed.gov/faq/what-protection-pupil-rights-amendment-ppra>
<https://studentprivacy.ed.gov/content/ppra>