

The Garden of Liberty created by our Founding Families provided the foundation for liberty to grow and prosper. This garden was nurtured in the home as parents planted seeds of Faith, Virtue, and Patriotism—the Three Pillars of Liberty. By following this same formula, we too can build a strong nation capable of sustaining freedom.

I should be pained to believe that [the American people] have forgotten that agency, which was so often manifested during our Revolution, or that they failed to consider the omnipotence of that God who is alone able to protect them.

—George Washington

We have staked the whole future of American civilization not upon the power of the government--far from it. We have staked the future of all of our political institutions upon the capacity of each and all of us to govern ourselves according to the Ten Commandments of God.

—James Madison

LIBERTY BEGINS AT HOME

A man's country is not a certain area of land, of mountains, rivers, and woods, but it is a principle; and patriotism is loyalty to that principle.

—George William Curtis

The Colors of Our Flag

The Red Stripes

remind us of the blood that was sacrificed in our behalf—a call to patriotism and love of country.

The White Stripes

remind us that to be able to live under a system of limited government, we personally need to live a moral and upright life.

The Blue Background

with white stars remind us of Heaven's guiding and protective Hand and that it is to God that we look for certain inalienable rights.
